Creative Writing Practice

Worksheet 2

Read the story starter shared below and look at the picture. Write a middle and ending to the story of your own.

Everyone seemed to have gotten used to having a world with no color. No one understood why colors had suddenly disappeared ten years ago, but it seemed normal now. As Norman got ready for school that morning he felt excitement in the air. He had been in middle school for only three weeks, but somehow, today felt special. He quickly dressed and ran outside to meet the bus. Norman stopped midway down the first step when he saw something he could not explain. A single purple flower hung from the typical grey vines that lined the walkway. He yelled for his mother.