Who Said It?

The Wind in the Willows characters supplied memorable wisdom that, although spoken by animals, can be applied in real life. Guess the name of the character who said the following quotes.

"A worthy fellow. Ratty with many good qualities, but very little intelligence and absolutely no education."

"Independence is all very well, but we animals never allow our friends to make fools of themselves beyond a certain limit, and that limit you've reached."

"Believe me, my young friend, there is nothing absolutely nothing - but so much worth doing as simply musing about it is."

"After all, the best part of a holiday is perhaps not so much to be resting yourself as to see all the other fellows busy working."

"Take the Adventure, head the call, now are the irrevocable moment passed!"

"I'm coming along with you, and I know every path blindfold, and if there's a head that needs to be punched, you can confidently rely upon me to punch it."
